

From initial design through finished construction and interior decoration, homeowners and buyers count on their Design Build Professionals to recommend and incorporate special features that reflect their personal lifestyle. By partnering with us, you will be able to provide desirable technology solutions that are custom designed for their needs. These solutions will seamlessly blend in with the architecture and aesthetics of their home.

We will work closely with you and your clients to design, program and install a custom solution that is precisely integrated with your designs. Westchester Audio Video Design Group's approach is a simple one. We follow these specific steps below:

Personal Consultation

Our experienced staff will meet with your clients to discuss a custom solution for their home.

Design and Engineering

We will work with you to design and engineer an electronic solution that is integrated with your plans.

Programming and Installation

Our electronic solutions will be programmed to function simply and seamlessly within your client's home

Training and Support

We will provide training and support so your clients will feel at ease operating their system.

500 Mamaroneck Ave., Suite 320
Harrison, NY 10528
914.921.0099
www.westchesterav.com
info@westchesterav.com

Integrate Technology
Before The Home Is Designed, Built & Decorated

Perfectly Designed Homes Include Electronic Solutions

This is the ideal time to expand your services beyond traditional designs. Now you can present clients with desirable technology solutions designed to meet their personal needs. Further delight them by ensuring that their system can be easily expanded in the future.

Westchester Audio Video Design Group will work closely with you and your clients to design and integrate a complete whole-house entertainment and control system. Imagine these exciting custom electronic solutions that you can proudly offer your customers:

- Home Automation & Control
- Whole House Music & Video
- Lighting and Shade Control
- Home Theaters and Media Rooms
- Telephone Systems
- Computer Networking
- Climate Control
- Energy Management
- Surveillance & Security

As your value-added technology integration provider, our goals are the same as yours:

- Make Clients Happy
- Get Referrals
- Increase Profits
- Finish on Time

Design Dream Homes For Your Clients

Architects and interior designers should have working knowledge of technology solutions that are available for custom homes. You will bring your clients a value-added service by educating them on the benefits of integrating technology into their home before the architectural plans and interior designs are complete.

From initial design through finished construction and interior decoration, homebuyers count on their architect and interior designer to recommend and incorporate electronic features that reflect their personal tastes. Your clients desire technology solutions that seamlessly blend into the architecture and aesthetics of their home.

Timing Is A Critical Component Of Your Designs

It is important to introduce electronic designs at the appropriate time. By discussing flat panel TV placement or home networking capabilities, you can be assured that the wires and outlets will be properly placed throughout the entire house and yard.

Westchester Audio Video Design Group designs and integrates entertainment, networking and control systems, which greatly enhances the desirability of a home. Your clients will be able to easily adjust the setting of their home by controlling the lights, managing the temperature and selecting their favorite music throughout the house. They can also manage which video sources they want to watch in any room and find daily convenience utilizing a whole-house control system.

Integrating architectural plans and interior designs is easy when done at the start. We will help you each step of the way, from creation of the blueprints to placement of the LCDs. Our objective is to make sure the entire process most enjoyable for everyone involved.

Count On Us As Your Perfect Partner

The first step in bringing State-of-the-art technology to your clients is to partner with us. We are true professionals who have unique experience working with builders, architects, interior designers and other contractors involved with your home.

Westchester Audio Video Design Group will assist you by conducting pre-design meetings between you and your clients so that the right questions are asked and answered. We will supply you with marketing packages that you can give to your clients. These packages include elegantly designed literature, which clearly explains the integration process and the options available.

